APRIL IS CREDIT UNION YOUTH MONTH!

Help young ones learn about financial literacy by exposing them early to the idea of sound money habits. Wondering where to start? Here are a few ideas to help get you started:

- Earning Money: This fundamental concept helps them understand the value of money and the effort needed to earn it. Encourage them to earn money by doing house chores or other jobs around the house.
- Setting Savings Goals: Help them plan for things they want to buy, like a new toy or game. A simple piggy bank and writing down how much they have saved versus how much they need will help! They can also open a savings account at the credit union and learn to start banking.
- Counting Money: Instill money-counting skills using different coins and notes. Depending on their age, introduce them to various payment methods, including cash and mobile payments, explaining how each transaction is completed.

By incorporating these money lessons into your child's routine, you can pave the way toward their financial success. Better yet, get them started with a kid's savings account at the credit union!
